Wanted: A Central Clearing House on Rooms

A young Army officer and his wife were in The Star office yesterday looking for accommodations during the month or two that the Second Army will hold maneuvers in this section, and it occurred to me right then and there that Hope had better get into high gear and establish some central clearing house for information on temporary quarters.

Eden Welcomes Russia as Ally of Britain

Begs People to Forget Past Relations, Remember British Aim

LONDON — (P) — Anthony Eden Tuesday formally welcomed Russia as an ally "in the common task of defeating Germany" in an address to the House of Commons.

Eden urged the British nation to forego the political in consideration of facing the situation raised by the German drive into Russia.

I understand from absolutely authentic sources that Hope will be headquarters for the August maneuvers of the Second Army, which means that the commissioned guests of the city will be a small army in themselves, running all the way from lieutenants and captains up to major generals.

It is up to Hope to find room for them, which is the least that any patriotic and hospitable city can do for the nation's armed forces engaged in a practice war that begins to look more and more like the real thing as the months of 1941 fly by.

This is a challenge to city and county government, to chamber of commerce, and all civic and church groups that may be organized to meet this local emergency. The Star hereby certifies that this cannot and must not obscure

The Pinch Is Coming

The crack salesman shrugged ruefully. "Yep! It's going to be a little tough. You see, I'm in the butter business!"

Knowing that he was in the electrical equipment business, his hearers all pinched up their ears. Then it dawned.

"Guns or butter?"

And we all remembered that his branch of the business was household appliances. Butter! Now the guns come first.

We are rapidly approaching the point where the shoe is going to pinch a little. It worries a few people. Not others. So many of the others have been learning for 10 years to get along without things.

A friend bought an electric refrigerator the other day. With it came a most polite and apologetic explanation of the lack of aluminum trays. The substitute trays were really quite satisfactory, it assured. They seemed to be, too. So what? It's possible that if necessary one could even get along without any ice cubes at all.

Suppose it should be true that in certain parts of the east it should be necessary to cut down a little on gasoline consumption? Probably some sort of rationing system would cause less hardship than cutting off all traffic on Sunday. But suppose that came? Europe, all of it, has had gasoline rationing for years. How long since you've walked a mile, anyway?

Suppose the old car must be driven a year longer, or the washing machine made to do for another year? Suppose cigarettes cost a few cents more and the price of whisky rises steeply. Suppose shaving cream comes in a glass jar instead of a tin tube, and anchovies can scarcely be had at all? Suppose taxes rise, and one is asked to give to the United Service Organization and to buy Defense Bonds?

Technically, some of these things may be called a reduction in the standard of living. Compare it with what is going on in Europe according to a private letter from the U. S. diplomat there: "In Europe one cannot speak of reduction in the standard of living. There is no standard of living. One gets what one can, and makes it do."

It is to prevent such a situation that we are asked to make little sacrifices now. Except for the men called for army service, real sacrifice has as yet been asked of nobody.

We should be ashamed to speak of the little changes and small inconveniences proposed thus far, as "sacrifices."

Pistol, Rifle Club Shoot Thursday

The Hempstead Rifle and Pistol club will meet at the National Guard Armory, Thursday night at 7:30, C. P. Roberts announced.

All members and others interested are urged to attend. Bring your rifles and pistols of 22 caliber if you have any, otherwise you may use the club guns.

The annual Clark county singing school will begin at Gurdon Sunday, July 21. The school will be directed by L. D. Huffstutter, of the Stamps Music Co. of Dallas, Texas. The public is invited.

Warn Citizens to Be on Guard for Typhoid

Army Appeals to Nevada Co. to Make Water Supply Safe Before Army Maneuvers Here in August

A special warning against possible infection of drinking water with typhoid during the Second Army maneuvers involving upward of 80,000 soldiers in the section during August was issued Tuesday by the Hempstead County Health Department.

Text of the typhoid warning, with instruction on safeguarding drinking water, follows:

Recent notices have been given that there will be approximately 80,000 Army troops in maneuvers in this section of the state. A typhoid epidemic might be expected to follow such maneuvers unless immunization and sanitary precautions are taken.

Typhoid is an infectious disease which is principally spread through contaminated food or water. These may become contaminated not only by body wastes of patients actually sick with typhoid, but also by some people who have had typhoid many years before and who are now apparently well. These people are called healthy typhoid carriers.

There will doubtless be typhoid carriers among these troops. Therefore all streams, springs and open wells will be potentially unsafe for drinking purposes because any excretions left by a typhoid carrier can contaminate a supply which is a great distance away, and this lasts for a long time.

With the above warning the Public Health Department wants to suggest the following precautions:

1. If you do not have a safe water supply you should boil your drinking water throughout the summer. You should take steps to insure a permanent safe water supply by installing properly located wells with force pumps. The water supply of cities is usually safe since they are under the observation of health authorities.

2. Take typhoid immunization if you have not received this in the last few years. For these, go to your family doctor, or, if arrangements cannot be made with him, contact your local health department and we will help make arrangements whereby you can receive them.

3. If you want a typhoid clinic in your community don't wait until the last minute and expect immediate service. Contact the health department early, get on the waiting list, and cooperate with us when the date is set. The county is large and the workers few, therefore the ideal time cannot be given every community.

4. Typhoid immunization is protective for three years, but due to the large areas to be covered, the scarcity of workers, and the multiplicity of other duties of the health department, it will be impossible to hold a clinic in every community every year. We plan to have one in every community every two years. Therefore if you will need immunization next year you should avail yourself of this year's clinic.

5. Typhoid is a very serious disease often proving fatal. It is easy to prevent. It should be considered a community disgrace for us to have a typhoid epidemic. Let's cooperate in fortifying ourselves against this enemy.

With the entire world in terror because of what is going on in Europe and Asia, it is absolutely necessary that our national defense be ready to protect our freedom, our homes, and our children against those who should try to make slaves of us. Our army can't be ready unless we have practice. Such practice may be annoying to you as a property owner, but we hope you will make a sacrifice in order to make your army efficient.

In the short time left between now and August 1, when the maneuvers will start, it is almost impossible to personally contact all farm owners; therefore, we also enclose three copies of a permit, which we hope you will sign promptly. Keep the third copy, and please return the other two, signed, in the enclosed envelope which requires no postage. If you are an owner, tenant, or share-cropper, please indicate which county your property is in, and the name and address of other people who have interest in your land by reason of lease or other agreement. If you no longer have an interest in the property, please furnish the name and address of the person who does.

With the entire world in terror because of what is going on in Europe and Asia, it is absolutely necessary that our national defense be ready to protect our freedom, our homes, and our children against those who should try to make slaves of us. Our army can't be ready unless we have practice. Such practice may be annoying to you as a property owner, but we hope you will make a sacrifice in order to make your army efficient.

Sincerely yours,
Bur P. Irwin, Lt. Col. Inf.

Here Is Copy of Permit Army Asks of Landowner

Below Is the Correspondence Landowners of This Section Will Receive From the Army in Advance of the August Maneuvers

Army officers at the courthouse in charge of Hempstead county land arrangements for the maneuvers of the Second Army in this section during August released for publication Tuesday complete copies of the correspondence which will go out shortly to all landowners.

Identical correspondence is being mailed out from Prescott Army headquarters to landowners of Nevada county—and the copies below are the same that will be received by all landowners throughout southwest Arkansas.

The Army is not leasing any land for the maneuvers. It is simply asking permission to cross such land as it finds necessary during the war games—with full payment for any actual damage. More than 80,000 men will participate in the maneuvers, with Hope as Second Army headquarters.

Following are the communications which landowners will receive, and they are expected to sign the permit-to-cross-land promptly and return it to the Army:

Governor's Proclamation

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME—GREETINGS:

WHEREAS, the Government of the United States has undertaken a tremendous program of rearmament and national defense, and the President has proclaimed a national emergency; and

WHEREAS, in order to properly train the sons of Arkansas and those of our neighboring states, trespass rights on large tracts of land will be held in August and September of 1941, and which should prove very interesting as well as inspiring to the citizens of Arkansas; and

WHEREAS, the Army of the United States will require trespass rights in the Counties of Scott, Polk, Sevier, Little River, Howard, Montgomery, Pike, Hempstead, Nevada, Clark, Dallas, Ouachita, Calhoun, Cleveland, Bradley, Union and Hot Spring; and

WHEREAS, the Governor of the United States will reimburse every individual for any damage caused by the maneuver of troops on their property; and

WHEREAS, throughout its history the State of Arkansas has always been ready and eager to do its part toward maintaining and defending the liberties for which our forefathers fought:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, HOMER M. ADKINS, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS, hereby appeal to the citizenry of the above-mentioned counties to individually and collectively cooperate with the Army of the United States, in securing the desired territory, and in every respect possible assist in making these maneuvers a success.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Arkansas to be affixed on this the 13th day of June, 1941.

C. G. Hall, Secretary of State.

Homer M. Adkins, Governor

June 15, 1941

There is enclosed herewith a proclamation signed by your Governor, the Honorable HOMER M. ADKINS, which speaks for itself.

As you know, the Second Army is contemplating holding maneuvers in your territory during August and September and is desirous of permission of passing over your land. About three million acres in this territory will be needed for this maneuver. At the present time we do not know what lands will be used. Not by any means will all the three million acres be used and your land may not even be touched by the soldiers, but we do want your permission in case your property is needed.

Testing 'Ash Cans of Death'

Depth Charges Prove Disappointing to Writer

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

AP Feature Service Writer

ABOARD H. M. S., AT SEA—

"Release depth charge!"

The order came down from the bridge of our lend-lease ship. The English in at the racks on the stern pulled a plug, and the ash-can of death to submarines splashed into the ocean.

We put on a burst of speed while the bomb was finding the deep level where it would burst automatically from pressure. I braced myself for an explosion.

I got the surprise of my life. I heard a noise like a distant shotgun firing in a foggy November field. A sort of "Boom." In a minute or two I saw a great area of the ocean behind us suddenly flatten out, glisten in the sun. There was a shimmer, rapid vibration on the surface, like heat waves, only faster and mushier. That was all.

"What?" I asked. "No explosion?"

"No," explained the officer at my side. "Not at that depth. Nor fish, either."

He was looking over the side, obviously disappointed at bringing up fresh fish for supper.

Nor was there any submarine, for we were just practicing with American depth charges. Our senior officer was putting our squadron through the paces of submarine attack, our last drill before I was to leave ship at an Eastern Canadian port.

I was glad of that for the crew's sake. I thought they needed a respite, even though they never seemed to mind the pace. We had zig-zagged ourselves senseless. We had signalled ourselves blue in the face. We fired practice rounds frequently, did 45-degree starboard turns.

"Your Women? Fresh?"

Now we were about to get a rest. I went below, asked my cabin boy to pack me up when he had a free moment.

"Davey," I asked, "what did you like most about America on your brief stay with us?"

"The big cities. They were fine. Life seems to begin at midnight."

"And how about our girls, Davey?"

"They're a bit fresh, don't you think, sir?"

"Fresh?"

"I've seen them roll their stockings in the street, sir."

Davey was embarrassed.

And the other lads who kept the wardroom shipshape and fed the crew obviously were tickled pink with their American ship. What impressed them most was the gadgets.

"There seems to be a gadget for everything except your fingerlings," he said, "and you're likely to get them clipped too if you don't mind out."

Our food was well prepared, extremely clean, and less greasy than the fare on most American warships. Outstanding was their standard curried rice with chutney, though it's not enough to scalp a fellow.

Skip the Coffee!

The coffee? Let's skip it. They tried very hard, but they just don't know what to do with coffee. The big coffee percolator—a standard fixture in the crew's quarters of every American warship—was soon being used to distill cocaine.

British officers liked American desserts better than their own, wished they could get coffee the American way. But they didn't like our cigarettes very much, thought they were a bit strong. I thought the same about theirs.

The ship lost its prohibition regulations when the British took over. With them came barrels of rum. Every man over 21 years old got his three fingers of grog every night—or the equivalent in pay, about $1.50 a month. Nearly half the men prefer the pay to the rum. When I tasted the stuff, I agreed with the men who took the pay.

I couldn't find a soul with a complaint against the lend-lease vessel I was leaving. That is, I could dig out only one grumble.

"Fess up," I said to one of the officers. "Isn't there one single thing you don't like about this ship?"

"Well, if you put it that way," he said. "I own the bunks in the cabins are a bit too comfortable."

"Too bad," I sympathized.

"Oh, I remedied that well enough. I stuck a board under the mattress. Now I sleep like a babe."

to the controversy sit down by themselves and try to iron out their difficulties without government interference. The status of the case at present, therefore, is that the unions have presented their demands to their employers, who are now holding conferences among themselves to decide what they can do. Then both sides will get together and try to reach an agreement.

If direct negotiations should fail and, if the case follows the regular channels, the next step would be the calling in of a Mediation Board mediator. The mediators in these cases work just like mediators always have to, informally and off the record. First, they talk to one side, then to the other, acting as messenger boys between the big men who aren't speaking to each other any more. Finally, the mediator may be able to find a formula to bring the two together again, and eventually they reach a settlement. Ninety per cent of the board's cases are settled by this mediation.

If that doesn't work, the next step is for the Mediation Board to suggest arbitration, under which each side names one arbitrator, and these two name a third. This arbitration board holds hearings, studies the case and makes its findings which are then put in effect through U. S. federal courts. Since 1934, 11 cases have been settled by arbitration following this pattern.

If the two sides won't arbitrate, or if the arbitration award is unsatisfactory to both sides and it looks as though the issue is going to bring on a strike which will cripple transportation, the National Mediation Board then puts the matter right up to the White House. Under the railroad law, the President is empowered to name an emergency board to investigate and report on the trouble.

The so-called and much discussed "cooling off" periods of the Railway Labor Act came through board orders and legal provisions freezing the situation pending mediation, arbitration and settlement. Employers and employees are required to file demands for changes in existing labor relations 30 days in advance. If arbitration is invoked, existing working conditions must remain in force without a stoppage of work for another 30 days.

Roads Lost Last Dispute

The wage issue hasn't been such a terribly difficult problem on a national scale since the Railway Labor Act was passed. In 1937 the employees asked for and got a general five cents an hour increase. In 1938 the roads

WE, THE WOMEN

It Can Be Home, Sweet Home—Even Without a Man Around

By RUTH MILLIETT

Girls are beginning to realize that it isn't necessary to have a husband in order to be as domestic as they please.

They have at last realized that a woman's desire for a home and having her own things about her needn't be squelched just because there is no man to share it.

And now that they are waking up to this fact, unmarried women are beginning to build more real and lasting backgrounds for themselves.

There is the extremely domestic young woman who, tired of furnishing one-room apartments, took the plunge and bought herself a lot and built a little house on it. She figured she couldn't swing it on her job, so she rents one room to a couple of single girls, and she'll continue to rent that room until the house is paid for. Then it will be hers—all her own.

Got a Big Kick Out of It

Nothing she ever did in her life gave her quite the thrill of putting over house plans, and then going to work with sewing machine and paint tried to have wage rates reduced but failed.

The present demands are something else again; a 30 per cent increase for 350,000 men in the Big Five Brotherhoods, where the minimum pay is now $5.05 a day; and a 30 to 34-cent an hour increase for 800,000 non-operating employees in 14 unions where the minimum now range from 36 to 85 cents an hour.

The Mediation Board handles about 300 cases a year, and the number of strikes since the law was passed has been low—not more than a dozen, none serious. Part and parcel of its set-up is the National Railroad Adjustment Board of 36 members, half employers and half employees, who referee disputes that come up under labor agreements after they're signed.

Whether a scheme of this kind would work for defense industries as a whole as well as it has worked on the railroads is something no one knows. But there are plenty of congressmen who would like to see it tried because they think anything would be an improvement on existing uncertainties.

brush to do an inexpensive, but interesting decoration job.

Another girl who likes living in an apartment decked there was her son in the world why she couldn't pick out a sterling silver bracelet just as a bride would, and her friends and family know she would rather have silver for birthday and Christmas than anything else.

When she got her silver service together, she began on a set of lovely china, and today she is just as proud of the table she sets as any bride.

Still another young woman who had wished for years she had a place of her own so that she could have a flower garden woke up to the fact that if she wanted a garden there was no reason in the world why she couldn't have one.

This City Girl Wanted a Garden

So she moved from her down-town apartment into one in a private home with a large, beautiful yard. She took the apartment with the promise that she could have her own garden, to plant as she pleased, in a spot she could see from her living-room window. Now she rushes home from work gets into slacks and has a grand time digging and transplanting instead of sitting in a stuffy apartment wishing she had a garden of her own.

A domestic-minded woman who finds an outlet for her domesticity doesn't miss half as much by not marrying as the woman who thinks that a husband is an absolute necessity around a house.

As one of these resourceful women puts it, "A man in the house is an enviable luxury and I'm the first to admit it. But, fortunately, for those of us who haven't husbands he isn't a necessity."

In the opinion of observers this announcement was taken that Bulgaria will stay out of the conflict and declare neutrality.

Truck Collides With Train

Three Narrowly Escape Possible Serious Injury

One white truck driver and two negro helpers narrowly escaped possibly serious injuries early Monday night when the loaded gravel truck in which they were riding plowed headlong into a L. & A. Railway freight train at a crossing about 1 mile south of Hope on Highway 29.

The driver of the truck, Kellee participate in the maneuvers in this area.

Lt. Col. Burr P. Irwin, President of the U. S. Army Rents Board at Gurdon, and Lt. Col. George R. McElroy, also of that headquarters, were present and Hope this week conferring with Army officers of the local land boards.

Putman of Hope, suffered painful and believed not serious bruises and lacerations. The two negroes also suffered cuts and bruises.

Neither of the three had been released from the hospital at noon Tuesday.

The truck, owned by Hempstead county Judge Fred A. Luck, was completely demolished.

The driver leans out of the truck. "Need help, mister?" he is a medium-sized gent with silver-framed glasses.

"Yup," says Angus. "Can you come outa there a minute?"

The driver shrugs his shoulders and swings out of the seat. "What's the matter?"

"It is hard to explain," says Angus. "I want to show you something. Take off your glasses."

"Why?" asks the driver belligerently. "I can see better with them on."

"Take them off anyway," Angus insists. "It will be better that way."

The driver is skeptical. "Something fishy about all this. But, all right, if it makes you feel any better."

Angus is very polite. "It will make you feel better," he says. "I am very sorry to have to do this, but I can't think of anything better just now." Angus' fist is so fast the driver can't see it come up. But he feels it—for a split second, at least. Then he closes his eyes and curls up in the dust.

ANGUS drags him to the side of the road and lays him neatly in the ditch. "That was much easier than trying to explain just now, Buddy," he apologizes. But the man will not be able to hear human voices for several hours anyway.

Under the seat of the truck, Angus finds a length of tow rope. He tosses it on the running board and goes back to get Spike, Butch and Tim. He swings Tim and Spike over his shoulders and deposits them next to the truck. Then he makes a special trip for Butch.

When he gets the tow rope cut into three equal lengths, he ties his former friends and arranges them neatly on the floor of the truck. There is plenty of room, because the driver was on his way back to the plant, and there are only a few empty crates left in the corner.

Angus finally slams the rear door shut and climbs into the front seat. He isn't sure just how to get back to New York, but he isn't worrying about finding his way. The main idea is to get back fast.

He doesn't know just how much time he has, but he knows it can't be much.

If Adoreen never needed him before, he is pretty sure she is going to need him now.

MADRID.—(P)—Uniformed Falangists paraded the streets of Madrid Tuesday and demonstrated in front of the German embassy with cries of "on to Moscow" and heard the Spanish foreign minister say "Russia must be exterminated."

The demonstration came as Spanish leaders sought to decide Spain's course in the Axis struggle against the Soviet Union.

The United States and British embassies were protected against possible accidents by a heavy guard.

Battle Reported Off Bulgaria

Many Reports Originate in Turkey Capital

LONDON.—(P)—Reuters, British news agency, in a dispatch from Ankara Tuesday told of unconfirmed reports that Russian cruiser, destroyers and submarines were battling German bombers off the Bulgarian coast of the Black sea.

The report was said to have come from Varna, Bulgaria, Black sea port, and said Germans had mined the Bulgarian and Rumanian coasts, leaving only a narrow channel leading to the Bosphorus, one of the Turkish straits which connect the Black sea with the Mediterranean.

Russian forces in Ankara said the Russian air force was holding its own on all fronts.

German sources in the Turkish capital were said to have heard that the Russians in Bucharest—which they took from Rumania last year—were taking the offensive and giving Germany strong opposition.

Reuters, British news agency, added that a report from Bucharest said the Axis military experts were employing triangular tactics in an attempt to isolate and destroy large units of
